Street Improvements. First Deputy Attorney General Keller of Pennsylvania having decided that the Highway Department can not build roads in boroughs, the status of a turnpike condemned by the State was the errand of Councilmen Capt. Gilbert and H. S. Trostle, and Wm. Arch McClean to the Highway Department this week.

Baltimore and Chambersburg streets in Gettysburg are parts of the old Gettysburg and Petersburg turnpike condemned by the State and it was urged that the responsibility of the State for the maintenance and repairs of such condemned turnpikes had been recognized. That by the condemnation they became State property. That the turnpike company never released its rights to the two streets in this town, but contributed annually to the repairs and that the State in acquiring the company by condemnation assumed the responsibilities for the streets.

It was admitted at the conference that the position of Baltimore and Chambersburg streets as part of a condemned turnpike put a new question to the Department and that the responsibility of the State would be immediately investigated. It was intimated that just what that responsibility was might have to be inquired of from the Attorney General and when understood would be assumed. Recent laws give the State the privilege of calling upon districts for contributions toward the payment of permanent improvements and in the event of the Highway Department assuming the responsibility for rebuilding any part of Baltimore and Chambersburg streets it was plainly evident that the town would be called upon for a share of the expense according to the ordinance setting aside a certain amount for permanent improvements to these two streets.

Meanwhile the borough has commenced a very much needed oiling of the streets, calling upon property owners for contributions toward the expense. The first square of West Middle street has been oiled and fourth square of Carlisle street. The Public Square will receive treatment at an early date. It is expected that several blocks on Baltimore, Chambersburg and York streets will be oiled. The dust throughout the town has been overwhelming and relief by oiling can not come too quickly.

In view of the proposed ordinance of Fourth street northward and Water street eastward to a meeting point, Martin Winter has made known a number of street extensions he proposes and he announces that they will all be made free to the town without asking the assessment of any damages. Mr. Winter will pursue the public spirited course he has always followed in not only donating the land for street purposes but liberally contributing toward the opening expenses. Mr. Winter has been glib with seeing ahead and planning for the future and the extensions he proposes are just as practical as his plans of a score or more of years ago when he saw in Lincoln street and Broadway a very beautiful residential section and it came to pass.

Mr. Winter's proposed extensions are: From the present terminus of Lincoln avenue to a point about three feet West of lands of William D. Amor, a distance of about 800 feet, making a total length for Lincoln avenue, 3,700 feet. It is also proposed to change the Harrisburg road from the borough line at Broadway to Lincoln street extended, and at right angle with Lincoln street, instead of the present bearing to the southwest.

From the proposed intersection of Water and Fourth streets, north to intersect with Lincoln avenue extended, over the route of what has been for years known as "Lovers' Lane" and which lane will be included in this extension of Fourth street, a distance of 850 feet—making total length of Fourth street from East Middle street to Lincoln avenue extended 2800 feet.

From the proposed intersection of Water and Fourth streets to a point about three feet west of lands of Oylor and Spangler at Rock Creek, a distance of 1250 feet making total length of Water street from Washington street to the above point 3600 feet.

From the above terminus of Water street south to Railroad street a distance of about 400 feet. This section is already graded. It is hoped to be able to extend this section to York street using one span of the W. M. R. R. bridge as a subway.

These proposed street additions, each 50 feet in width, total 3700 feet which added to the 1900 feet to be opened by the borough make a total of 5600 feet, or more than two miles of additional building and manufacturing frontage in a growing section of the town.

Shorb—Hockensmith.—A beautiful wedding took place in St. Mary's Church, Middletown, Pa., Tuesday morning, May 2nd, when, at a nuptial high mass, Miss Violet M. Hockensmith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hockensmith, of Brunshtown, became the bride of Eugene A. Shorb, son of Mrs. Lewis Shorb, of Midway. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. A. Howard. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. James Lingg. The bride was beautifully attired in a gown of white satin with pearl trimmings, and wore a veil caught up with lilies of the valley. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. The bridesmaid wore a dress of white voile. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Lingg. Colgan, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Colgan, both of Hanover, were united in marriage on Sunday evening by Rev. J. C. Murphy in St. Vincent's rectory. The attendants were Miss Florence Klunk, of Hanover, Miss Wassam of York, and Howard McDonald, of Gettysburg. Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Shultz—Eitz.—A very quiet marriage was celebrated in old Conewago Chapel this week, Francis Shultz, son of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Shultz, and Miss Mary Eitz being united in matrimony by Rev. Fr. Charles Koch.

March—Hawk.—Miss Hilda Hawk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hawk of the Chestnut Grove farm near Bart's U. B. Church, Locust Hill, and Clarence March, of Midway were married Saturday evening, Apr. 22nd, at Mt. Alto, by Rev. Daniel J. March, a brother of the groom.

Appler—Rider.—Miss Irene U. Rider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Rider, and Maryland E. Appler were married Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at St. Francis Xavier rectory by Rev. W. F. Boyle. The attendants were Miss Myrtle A. Redding and Cleason G. Fair.

VanDyke — Hake. — Miss Mary Hake, daughter of Mrs. M. J. Hake of West Middle street, and Dr. B. S. VanDyke of Cranberry, N. J., were married in Philadelphia on April 22 by Rev. W. S. Kretschum, D.D. They spent a portion of their honeymoon in Gettysburg. Mrs. VanDyke is a graduate of the Gettysburg High School and of the Presbyterian Hospital Training School in the class of 1912. Dr. VanDyke is a practicing physician near Princeton. He is a graduate of Columbia University.

Stahle—Anderson.—On last Thursday at Pickets, Miss, Robert N. Stahle, son of Mrs. Thomas J. Stahle of this place, and Miss Retta Anderson of Pickets, were united in marriage. The "Jackson Daily News" notices the wedding as follows: Mr. Stahle is well known in both business and social circles in Jackson, having been connected for some time with the Ouilber Coffee Company of New Orleans and during this connection he has made his home in this city and Clarksdale, and midway between the progressive points he found, in the picturesque village of Pickets, the lovely young girl who this morning became his happy bride; Rev. E. T. Mobberly, the pastor of the bride's family, consecrating the rites in the most impressive manner, in the presence of a small company of friends, with the relatives of the radiant young bride. Miss Anderson was beautifully gowned in a tailored suit of new blue Gabardine, and carried the groom's tribute-of-the-hour, a splendid cluster of Killarney roses, the contrast between their rose shades and the blue of her gown being most effective. After the impressive marriage service, a buffet luncheon was served to the intimate circle present, and immediately afterward Mr. and Mrs. Stahle left for New Orleans and the Gulf Coast to spend their honeymoon.

Stahler—Kissinger.—The town was given a surprise this week by the marriage of Alan Donald Stahler, a Freshman in College, and Miss Madeline Kissinger, a senior in the High School, and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kissinger of Baltimore street. The young people went to Baltimore to be married. The groom is a son of Rev. W. E. Stahler of Lebanon.

New Soldier's Widow's Pension Bill.

The Ashbrook bill in congress providing for pensions to widows of soldiers has not become a law. The bill has been favorably reported to the House and is expected to become a law before Congress adjourns. The Ashbrook bill will, if passed, increase the pension of a widow who was the lawful wife of a soldier during the period of his service in the Civil War, from $12 to $20 per month. This cares for the so-called war widows. Since the average age of Civil War soldiers was 18 years, the per cent. of soldiers who were married previous to or during their service in the war is thought to be insignificant, and the surviving widows comparatively few.

In addition, the measure provides for a pension of $20 per month for all Civil War widows who have now reached or "who may hereafter reach" the age of 70 years. They may be now on the pension rolls or their names "may hereafter be placed thereon." The house of representatives has passed a bill giving a pension of $12 per month to the widows of Spanish War soldiers, or of men who fought in the Philippine insurrection or in China.

"Widows of the Civil War," the committee reports on the bill, "did not receive pensions until 1890, or nearly 25 years after the close of the war, and then only $8 per month, which was increased to $12 per month in 1908. The Civil War was one of the bloodiest and most enduring wars of modern times, and the increase of pensions of the widows of this war to $20, when they reach the advanced age of 70 years, when compared with pensions given to widows of the soldiers of other wars, is still inadequately rated. Only a small per cent. of widows live beyond the age of 70 years. None are able to earn their own support who live beyond three-score and 10 years, and a pension of $20 per month for those who live beyond the age of 70 years means less than $12 per month for younger women who are able to work and support themselves. The committee feels that this increase is warranted."

"Under the act of June 27, 1890, no widow who married a soldier after that date is entitled to a pension. There was possibly good cause at that time for this restriction, for it is claimed young women quite often married old soldiers largely because of the prospect of securing a pension. Special acts have been passed for a number of years, for widows who were married since the passage of the act of 1890, about 26 years ago. This bill raises the marriage limit 15 years, or until June 27, 1905. No woman who married a soldier during the past 11 years, or who may hereafter marry a soldier, will be entitled to a pension. No woman who has married during the past 26 years can be charged with having done so with the expectancy of receiving a pension. The committee believes that an act lifting this restriction for a period of 15 years is fully warranted."

Court House Aesthetics.

The present Court House administration may have many meanings but its one predominant movement is the Aesthetic. They have subsidized the Compiler to tell the people all about it. They see more in life than sordid fees after plugging over musty, dusty records. They belong to the class the poet told of that if he had but two souls he would use one to buy white hyacinths to feed his soul. As it is too late for hyacinths they are getting along with geraniums.

This aesthetic movement happened thuswise. On Monday morning the Court House was deserted in accordance with a pre-conceived plan. Not an official could be found in his sanctum. They had all vanished, but not very far distant. They were to be found performing in the south Court House yard to the delight of an audience at the iron front fence. Some of these officials were full dressed, others coatless, and hatless, and they were going through all kinds of manoeuvres, some with rakes, shovels, picks, etc. It seemed to have some meaning for when the performance was over a wagon load of refuse, weeds, brickbats, bottles, and court house souvenirs had been hauled away and the entire yard had taken on such an appearance as it hath not had in the memory of the oldest citizen. The yard had been spaded, turned and raked over. Grass seed had been sown. There were terraced flower beds and sunken, no we can't say that the gardens were sunken, but the gardeners, each nursing some new kink the manoeuvres had given.

At least ten, perhaps a dozen busy officials for the sake of court house aesthetics had loaned a pair of hands and all gratis and whether you calculate the work at the regulation wage of these days or at an official figure, any one can see that the sum total of outlaid energy must mount up and this not counting the team. And the geraniums are blooming and the ferns costing a picnic to the mountain to get are unfurling. The aesthetics of the court house officials are in evidence and proving most delightfully the worth of making blades of grass and flowers grow where before there was unsightly rubbish. So here's to the Court House aesthetics, may it flourish through to the end of the hot summer days.

To Rebuild Driveway in Cemetery.

The National Cemetery will be improved with a new driveway according to present plans of the Secretary of War. Specifications and plans have been prepared and bids asked for the building of a road 1800 feet in length. The old road is to be dug down to the hard foundation on which it was built. On this is to be placed crushed stone to depth of 2-12 inches and rolled. It will be treated to a bituminous binder. Upon this will be placed a coating of half inch chips and rolled and the finished surface will be given a treatment of naphtha asphalt and a further coating of stone chips. The finished road will resemble portion of Broadway built last fall.

While Uncle Sam is busy with improvements the pavement along the Cemetery should be rebuilt. This pavement was built by the government each time it had to be renewed. The Cemetery faces on a borough street, which put the burden of paving on abutting owner. The present conditions of the pavement gives the visitor a bad impression of that care and attention a veteran's cemetery should have, for the sidewalk is in a most deplorable condition, and the good pavements nearby add to the unfavorable contrast.

Judge Swope's Last Opinion Affirmed

A decision of the Supreme Court in a case from this county will change the practice in this and many other counties in adverse revival of judgments. The appeal to the Supreme Court was that of First National Bank of Gettysburg vs. The Home Building and Loan Association of Hanover. The old practice of reviving judgments had been by authority of the Prothonotary and the latter office issued the writ to revive, but the Supreme Court now decides that this is not sufficient, and that the writ must be delivered to the Sheriff for service. In the case appealed the judgment of the Bank had been revived in the usual way and the writ did not go to the Sheriff and the judgment of the Home Building and Loan Association of $2750 claimed priority over the Bank in distribution.

The exhaustive research into the law by John Reed Scott, Esq., at the argument before the Court won the decision in the court here for the Building Association. Upon the argument in the Supreme Court J. D. Keith, Esq., appeared for the Association and J. L. Williams, Esq., and Charles S. Butt, Esq., for the Bank.

Notable Commencement.

Commencement 1916 at Gettysburg College should attract a large attendance of the alumni and others interested in this institution. Commencement will be notable by the attendance of Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh who will deliver the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday morning in the College Church. On Commencement Day addresses will be made by Hon. J. Hay Brown, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, who is a graduate of the College, and Isaac Rustling Pennypacker, author, journalist and lecturer. Rev. August Pohman of the class of 1891, will deliver the discourse to the Y. M. C. A. in the College Church on Sunday evening. Such a program should arouse the spirit of all former students and friends and start them toward Gettysburg.

—Burgess Eicholtz has set Thursday, May 23, as "Clean-Up" Day for Gettysburg. People are requested to place rubbish in the alleys where it will be collected and taken away.

Wipe the BLUE out of MONDAY

Monday is a hard day. But not so hard that it should give you the blues. Neither should the end of the day find you nervous, done out, fit for nothing but bed.

It's not necessary—not if you'll replace your range with a New Perfection Oil Cook Stove. For it's the range that's responsible for the fuss and the fume and for the terrible heat of the kitchen.

With a coal range there's no way out of keeping a roaring fire going the whole day long and just to heat a few boilers of water. But with a Perfection wash day loses its terrors. The flame is kept going only as long as it is in actual use, your kitchen can't become unduly warm, and meals can be prepared just as usual.

Ask your dealer to explain the conveniences of a Perfection. Then have him tell you how little kerosene it uses and how cheap kerosene is.

Don't think all kerosenes are the same. They're not. No more than all sugars are identical. Of course, you know that cane sugar is better than beet sugar and you buy accordingly.

But what, perhaps, you don't realize is that Atlantic Rayolight Oil differs from other kerosenes in that it burns without smoke or smell, without charring wicks, but with an intense heat. It never varies. Each gallon of Rayolight is precisely the same. And don't forget that the use of Rayolight lengthens the life of any oil-burning device.

Ask for Atlantic Rayolight Oil by name—at all dealers who display this sign:

CHAUTAUQUA A GREAT POPULAR EDUCATOR

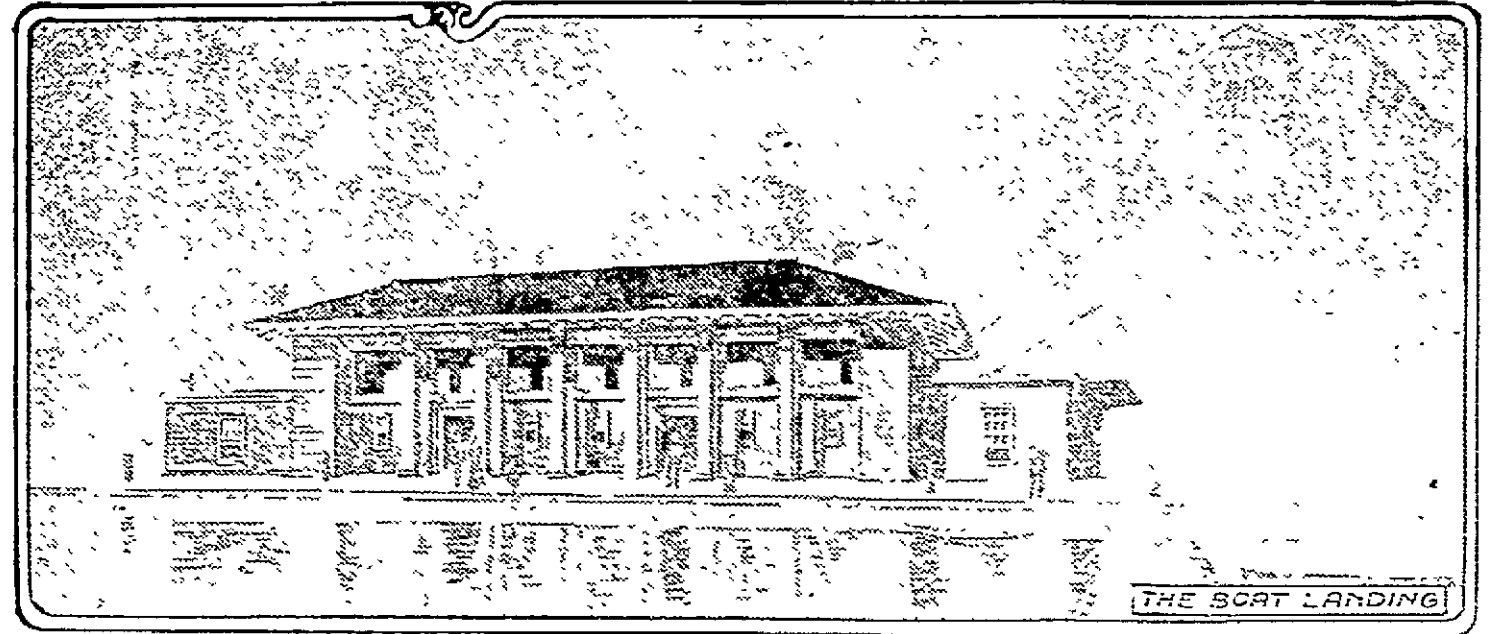

Impartial Discussion of Vital Subjects In World Crisis.

Chautauqua Institution, the pioneer in summer assemblies, summer school and home reading courses, maintain its leadership in popular education by a rare combination of intellectual training, stimulating platform events and healthful recreation. Its public program again offers at a time of world crisis impartial discussion of vital subjects by authoritative leaders of public opinion. More significant even than the individual addresses by notable men are the series of one week each on current political, social, economic and religious problems. Topics for such discussion are the defense of the nation the Americanization of our foreign inhabitants, the church in its task of making a war cursed world, the elevation of American business to a profession, with professional breadth of training and professional loftiness of ethics, the messages of art and antiquity to modern practical life and taxation in the light of wisdom and justice. Each of the eight weeks from June 29 to Aug. 27 is devoted to some one major interest, that of Aug. 7-11 being music, with the well known Russian Symphony Orchestra engaged to supplement the regular musical resources of the Institution. The names of many educators and public men of the first rank appear in announcements just issued. Eight preachers of national reputation will give the eight Sunday morning sermons, and there are many other religious exercises.

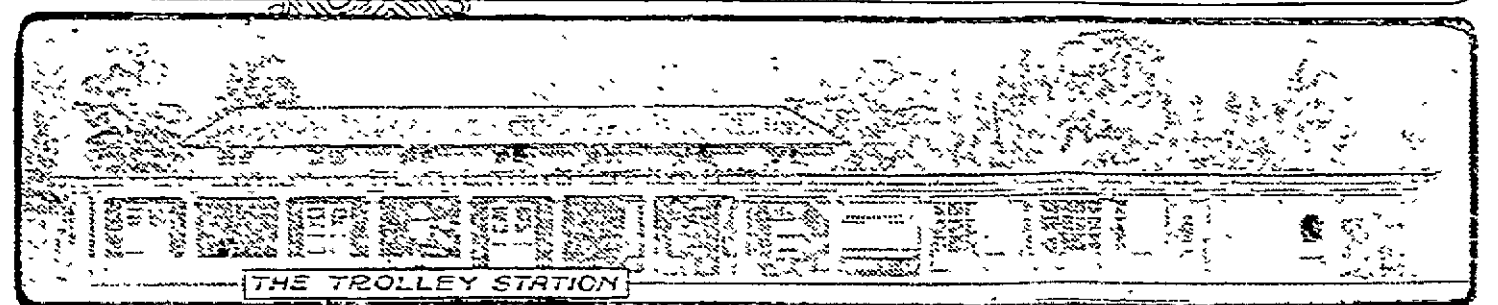

The Chautauqua Summer Schools offer something over 200 courses in their catalog, just issued, and list over a hundred instructors, many of them prominently connected with great universities during the college months.

With its altitude of 1,400 feet, its twenty mile lake and the climate for which the region is famous, there has always been at Chautauqua the greatest variety of outdoor sports and recreations. The list now includes golf, motor racing, tennis, croquet, bowling, gymnastics, track athletics, sailing, rowing and fishing. Somewhat amusing to note, the prospectus for the year just issued, indicates the pitching of horseshoes as one of the pastimes that arouse most enthusiasm among substantial business men and dignified members of the professions. It is only a step back to boyhood after all. Under almost ideal conditions for health, convenience and enjoyment, at a place like Chautauqua every member of the family finds a satisfying home for the summer.

ATTENTION, DEMOCRATS

(From The Uniontown News Standard.)

For almost two years the subjects of almost a dozen of the greatest European nations have responded to their respective governmental calls. They have donned the military garb, gone to the front and into the trenches, leaving family ties near and dear to them behind.

At the front, and in the trenches, with every destructive implement of war that the ingenious mind of man can conceive there they are today, and will be, we fear, for some time to come, slaughtering and killing their fellow man.

When maddened Europe awakens from this useless and bloody carnage and takes an inventory, there will be found among the items:

Gone—Millions of Europe's strongest and ablest men, both physically and mentally—the young manhood of Europe, the rightful future builders of its leading countries.

Left, and more's the pity—Millions of helpless women and children, weakened physically and mentally by lack of proper food and care and the awful scenes of war and devastation. And from the labor to be produced by their weakened minds and bodies, together with that of the returning soldier, must be paid in the future, the most fabulous war debts ever known since the beginning of time.

And all of this because these European subjects follow their country's call and approve the course of their respective rulers.

In these United States we also have a man whom we recognize as the head of our national affairs. He is called the president. He comes from among the common people, and is chosen by them. "Thank God for Woodrow Wilson."

In times like these this prayer is silently uttered nightly, in millions of American homes. Woodrow Wilson has the confidence of the rank and file of the truly American citizen, and has steered the Ship of State through troublesome waters, despite the mischievous intrigue of foes abroad and the political intrigue of partisan demagogues at home.

Our country enjoys the greatest industrial period of its history. Peace and plenty prevail. As silent as Lincoln and with the same moral courage, President Wilson appeals only to his God for guidance aright, and asks the American people to trust him, and THEY DO.

Lincoln's efforts were not appreciated in his life time, and the American people have been trying to make up for it these last fifty years. Wilson should have approbation now. He will be the only candidate of his party for the presidential nomination at St. Louis. He should and will be the unanimous choice of his party at the primaries and he should and will be the choice of the people of the country in the election. Every Democrat in the nation should take the time to go to the polls at the primary and put the stamp of approval on President Wilson's conduct of affairs.

Mr. Democratic Voter, you and your neighbor are not today called by your country to the trenches with a gun to approve its course. Then won't you, in the proper exercise of your right of franchise, go to the polls and with your ballot, approve Wilson's administrative course by voting for him in the presidential primary?

Pennsylvania Democrats should especially turn out on May 16th and vote for President Wilson. It was the heroic stand of 71 Pennsylvania delegates, at Baltimore, for ten days, under the leadership of A. Mitchell Palmer, that made it possible for the country to have Woodrow Wilson as president. Palmer is today, Pennsylvania's Democratic National Committeeman, and is a candidate in the state-wide primaries to succeed himself. He is the leader of the Democratic party of the state. He believes in a democratic organization, true blue, and free from bi-partisanship. If that kind of Democracy appeals to you, vote for Palmer. His loyalty to President Wilson is today as it was during the memorable fight at Baltimore in 1912.

No Democrat, in the whole nation, is held in higher regard and esteem by President Wilson than is A. Mitchell Palmer. And notwithstanding, Mr. Palmer is opposed in his contest for National Committeeman. His opponent is Michael Liebel, Jr., of Erie, Pa.

Liebel was not a delegate to the Baltimore convention, but he was there and used his influence against Wilson. Under Mitchell Palmer's leadership 71 of the 76 delegates from Pennsylvania voted for Wilson from first to last. At a critical stage in the balloting Liebel showed his hand by appearing on the floor of the convention hall and inducing R. X. Brown, one of the delegates to change his vote from Wilson to another candidate.

The Pennsylvania Democratic organization is for Wilson to a man. Liebel is fighting the organization, and the interests which Liebel represents are fighting Wilson in the dark. Because of the sinister influences behind Liebel not a single recommendation made by him during his term in congress won the recognition of President Wilson. The administration knows him so well that it has reduced him to a political cipher.

There is no danger of Michael J. Liebel, Jr., being elected National Committee man from this state, but that is no reason why every Wilson Democrat should not be on his guard. In spite of the plotting of Bioes Penrose in spite of the assistance of big special interests; in spite of the collection and use of great liquor corruption funds; in spite of the perfidy of sham Democrats, the real Democrats of Pennsylvania will re-elect A. Mitchell Palmer a member of the National Committee and send a delegation to St. Louis that will fight for the re-nomination of Woodrow Wilson and never a surrender.

What if you vote Palmer stands for Wilson, and Wilson stands for American peace and American prosperity. Liebel stands for Penrose, and Penrose stands for crooked politics. Which will you be for?

Vote for A. MITCHELL PALMER for Member of the National Committee.

Making Every Inch Count.

Mr. Margeson has crowded more fruit, large and small, onto his five acres than most farmers grow on ten. In the fall, it is difficult to find passageway among the trees and berry bushes. Let no one suppose, however, that the farm is akin to a tangled wildwood. On the contrary, it is laid out as systematically and in as orderly fashion as one could wish. Moreover, it produces tremendous yields, the result of heavy feeding and incessant cultivation. When Mr. Margeson hears people tell about the necessity of keeping other crops out of the orchard, he only smiles. If he sees an area of ground three feet square without something growing on it, he feels that land is being wasted. In desperation he plants even a few hills of beans! Perhaps this desire to make every inch count comes from the fact that Mr. Margeson was a city man before he turned farmer, and that he learned early in life to place a high value on a small piece of land—Edward I. Farrington in "The Countryside Magazine" for May.

Would Grace National Senate.

"Judge Ellis L. Orris would grace one of Pennsylvania's seats in the United States senate. He embodies all the essential qualifications and would bring honor to his state. He stands the peer of any man in the commonwealth for character, learning, honesty, integrity and capacity. There never would be any question of his faithfulness to duty and absolute independence of the selfish interests." (Clearfield Republican (Democrat), April 21.)

Murvihill Not at Liebel Meeting.

"We failed to notice the Hon. Jim Murvihill's name among the list of representatives at the Liebel Bellevue-Stratford meeting, but J. S. Attorney Lowry Hume is furnishing reasons for keeping Murvihill in the back ground. Jim, however, can be relied on to give aid and comfort to the movement to place Democracy under control of the bi-partisan machine." (Delaware County Democrat, April 21.)

Perhaps Congressman Liebel would not now be a candidate for A. Mitchell Palmer's place had the men who brought him out known that the difference between Penrose and Brumbaugh would not be settled and thereby permit a large proportion of the Penrose following in Pennsylvania to get into the Democratic fight to down the present organization.

THE REAL ISSUE NOT "HARMONY"

Would Defeat Palmer and Morris in Order to Capture Democratic State Organization.

BOTH RECOGNIZED BY WILSON

A Few Plain Facts Set Forth for Thinking Democrats—Do You Full
Duty on May 16 at the Primaries.

In the last session of congress Hon. A. Mitchell Palmer enjoyed the confidence of President Wilson and was the administration's recognized spokesman. A few weeks ago a conference of all the Democratic State Chairmen of the country was held in Washington to devise plans for the coming presidential campaign. This conference was held at the suggestion of intimate friends of the president; and Roland S. Morris was selected by them to issue the call and preside. These facts will not be questioned.

Michael Liebel opposed Wilson's nomination at Baltimore, and has helped to defeat Democratic nominees for years in his district. This same Liebel was repudiated by President Wilson, and was never granted an appointment in his district since he has been in congress. These facts cannot be refuted.

Today, nearly all the Liebel followers are Penrose henchmen, parading under the mask of Democracy, among them being Donnelly, Editor Dwyer, Bonniwell, Garman, Ritter and others of that stripe—the remnants of the discredited Hall-Guffey bi-partisan machine that sold out Democracy at the Allentown convention, in consequence of which they were branded as political traitors. These facts also are well known.

In 1912 conditions in the party organization became intolerable. A state-wide protest was made to the Hall-Guffey "Old Guard" management, and by a clear vote at the primaries these trading Democrats were driven from power. Among the leaders in the new movement were Hon. A. Mitchell Palmer, Vance C. McCormick, George W. Guthrie, Roland S. Morris and others. Since that date these men have given largely of their time and means to maintain a clean organization in this state that would be worthy of the name, and loyal to the principles and traditions of the great party founded by Jefferson and Jackson, and now so fully typified in Woodrow Wilson and his administration—and they have not only been zealous and faithful in the discharge of this responsibility, but eminently successful. These facts are universally conceded.

At the same time, the same old, disgruntled, disappointed Hall-Guffey henchmen, in season and out of season, for four long years, have insidiously, persistently and maliciously assailed the Democratic party, its organization and its tickets; and these men now have the brazen audacity to impose on the intelligence of the loyal sincere Democrats of Pennsylvania by hiding their hypocrisy under the false plea for harmony, while at the same time they are precipitating another bitter factional fight, on the eve of a presidential election, willing to sacrifice everything in the hope of regaining control. This is notoriously evident.

With this array of facts before you, it clearly must be evident that this band of disorganizers are not interested in Democratic harmony in Pennsylvania, but aim only to capture its organization; and to succeed, there fore, have in mind especially the defeat of National Committeeman A. Mitchell Palmer, and Chairman Roland S. Morris, at the coming primary. This is a fact.

Therefore, intelligent, thoughtful Democrats will have no trouble in determining the real issue involved in this factional contest.

Every sincere Democrat owes it to his party to attend this primary and do his full duty.

"WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH THE PHILADELPHIA RECORD?"

Why It Assails the Democratic State Organization—Is Controlled by Republicans.

(From Centre Democrat, Bellefonte.) "Many Democrats in this part of the state are constant readers of the Philadelphia Record, because it is the only daily published in Philadelphia that pretends to support Democratic principles. When conducted by Mr. Slingerly it enjoyed the utmost confidence of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania, and since then he has turned on that prestige. Today the paper is controlled by a corporation, and the stock is owned largely by Republicans like the Wanamakers and others. It is fortunate in having no Democratic competition in the eastern part of Pennsylvania and Middle Jersey, therefore it wears the mask of Democracy for revenue and in a perfunctory manner supports President Wilson, while in local affairs it is a valuable annex to the Penrose machine.

"For some years it has persistently fought the Democratic party of Pennsylvania. It has maliciously misrepresented and distorted important news to discredit the regularly constituted Democratic organization. It has failed to support party platforms or endorse the party nominees in important campaigns. It is heart and soul in sympathy with the notorious Donnelly-Penrose corrupt twin-Penrose machine, and is the shameless champion of their cause, its managing editor, John P. Dwyer, was one of the active participants in the rape of Democracy at the Allentown convention, and since then has consorted and confided with the discredited Hall-Guffey-Garman-Donnelly brand of political pirates who repeatedly have tried to scuttle the Democratic ship.

"It is unfortunate that the Democracy of Pennsylvania, by force of necessity, depends on a publication largely owned by Republicans, and directed by a bi-partisan, for information and political guidance. In recent articles the Record has assailed the Democratic state organization and encouraged another bitter factional contest in the party, on the eve of a presidential campaign, by championing the cause of Michael Liebel for National Committeeman, a movement which there is every reason to believe was hatched in the fertile brain of Editor Dwyer and launched directly from the Record office.

"Once a Democratic publication of wide repute published by the noted Slingerly, under the recent political management of John P. Dwyer that newspaper has degenerated into a political prostitute, an instrument for evil.

"That is why we deem it proper to warn Democrats against reposing confidence in the political reports and utterances of the Philadelphia Record, and especially when it presents Michael Liebel for harmony sake, as a suitable Democrat to become our National Committeeman.

Who Owns the Record?

In view of the fact that thousands of loyal Democrats in the eastern part of the state from necessity read the Record, naturally inquiry is constantly made "What is the matter with the Record?" It therefore may be of interest to the public to call attention to a sworn statement that appeared in that paper on April 2, 1916, in which the following were designated as its stockholders, the political attitude of each as generally known in Philadelphia, being:

Theodore Wright (retired)...Democrat
Stuart Wyeth.....Republican
M. F. Hanson.....Gordon-Democrat
William S. Stenger.....Gordon-Democrat
Rodman Wanamaker.....Republican
Mary Lowther Thomson.....Rep. family

Judge Gordon has publicly ridiculed President Wilson and bitterly denounced the present administration and the Democratic state organization, to which Editor Dwyer failed to protest. What more could you expect from a publication so largely owned and controlled by such powerful Republican influences? That is "What is the matter with the Record?"

For years the Record has done everything in its power to disorganize the Democracy in Pennsylvania and disrupt the organization. Its managing editor, John P. Dwyer, consorts with trading Democrats like the notorious Charles Donnelly who has been Penrose's political henchman these many years; he confides with Judge Garman, Michael Liebel, Eugene Bonniwell and that brand of trading Democrats who time and time again have betrayed the party and its nominees.

When these facts are carefully considered, it can easily be understood "What is the matter with the Record", and why, on the eve of an important presidential campaign it so persistently sows the seeds of discord in the party it hypocritically pretends to support. These facts also emphasize, at this time, the crying need of a loyal, sincere Democratic daily paper in Philadelphia.

Just Like the Record.

"It is a high sign of weakness when opposition newspapers will fall back on the Allentown Democrat for political editorial and news matter. The Allentown Democrat is one of the best Penrose newspapers in Pennsylvania. It has fed honey to the bi-partisan Democrats for so long that the best people of Lehigh county have long been accustomed to either ignore its political gabblings altogether or consume them with liberal sprinklings of salt," says the Monroe Democrat.

In this connection it is interesting to know that the Allentown Democrat is owned largely by Colonel Harry C. Trexler, a Republican, who is an ornament on Governor Brumbaugh's staff, and George H. Harden, regular standpat Republican. The editor, J. G. Weiser, is a disappointed, disgruntled political sore head, because he failed to secure the appointment of postmaster at Allentown. That is what ails the Allentown Democrat.

Go to the primary election next Tuesday, May 16. All sincere Democrats who stand for clean politics and good government have a duty to perform on that date.

IT'S FOOLISH TO SUFFER

When So Many Gettysburg People Are Pointing the Way Out.

You may be brave enough to stand backache or headache or dizziness. But, if, in addition urination is disordered, look out! If you don't try to fix your sick kidneys, you may fall into the clutches of dangerous disease before you know it. But, if you live more carefully and help your kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills, you can stop the pains you have and avoid future danger as well. Don't experiment—use the remedy Gettysburg people are publicly endorsing. Read this case:

Mrs. John L. Menchey, 46 Breckinridge St., Gettysburg, says: "Several times in the past I suffered from backache and dizzy headaches. My kidneys acted irregularly. Doan's Kidney Pills procured at the People's Drug Store, gave me such good benefit that I haven't found it necessary to use them in a long time." Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Menchey had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

HONORABLE ELLIS L. ORVIS
of Bellefonte, Pa.
Candidate for United States Senator

Is a son of the late John H. Orvis, one of Pennsylvania's famous ejectment lawyers and eminent jurists; a graduate of State College in 1876, and for many years has served as a member of the board of trustees of that institution. He was admitted to the Centre County Bar association in 1880 and continued actively in the legal profession until 1904, when he was elected President Judge of his district. He filled that position until 1915, becoming one of the foremost jurists in Pennsylvania, having the remarkable record of but one reversal during eleven years of continuous service as President Judge. Mr. Orvis also has been largely interested in extensive coal and fire brick operations, in central Pennsylvania, through which he has had intimate relations with the financial and business world. Much of his leisure time is devoted to literature. Scholar, jurist, business man—of wide experience and culture, and in the prime of life, Honorable Ellis L. Orvis would be an able, fitting and distinguished representative of the Keystone state in the councils of the nation.

For Himself.
Since Michael Liebel, Jr., who seeks A. Mitchell Palmer's seat in the Democratic National Committee, brooks his open affiliation with the Republican organization and became, nominally, a Democrat about eleven years ago, he has never supported any Democratic candidate for congress in his district, except himself, when he was the nominee in 1914.

Jim McNichols' Judge, Bonniwell, elevates his tin horn long enough to boast that he and his fellow party wreckers humiliated the Democracy in Pennsylvania in 1912, betrayed it in 1914, and will ruin it in 1916. Where was Bonniwell in 1915, when City Chairman Gordon N. Bremley polled less than 5600 out of 25,000 votes in Philadelphia?

THIS IS IMPORTANT

Close attention to the election of members of the Democratic State Committee in the primary should be given by the Democrats.

There are 113 members of the State Committee. Each of the fifty senatorial districts is entitled to elect two State Committeemen, and where a Senatorial district is composed of more than one county or part of a county, in which case the electors residing in each county or part of a county embraced in the senatorial district are entitled to elect one state committeeman. The members of the state committee shall meet for organization not later than the third Wednesday following their election at a time and place designated by the state chairman.

Undesirable Elements.

"The rank and file of the Democratic party of Pennsylvania are positively opposed to any return to the old bi-partisan days when the Democratic bosses were part and parcel of the Republican machine. The very fact that all the undesirable elements of the old misleadership are active supporters of the candidacy of Mr. Liebel, the head of the Liebel Democratic machine in Erie county, is proof sufficient that his election cannot but prove to the detriment of the party."—Norristown Ledger.

Don't Be Misled.

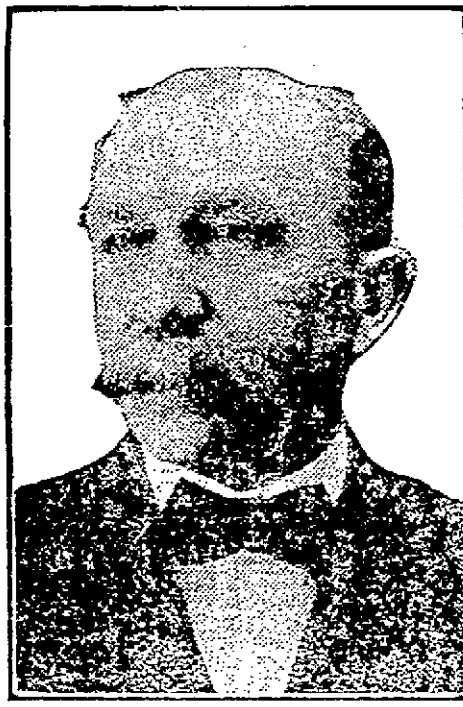

"Democrats should not be misled by the misrepresentations of such papers as the Philadelphia Record. The policy of the Record has ever been to find fault with the existing organization, no matter who was at its head, and while it harps about 'Party harmony' it never loses an opportunity to promote discord in the party ranks."—Slingsgrove Times.

An Old Game.

Whenever the Hall-Guffey crowd set out to the Penrose machine, as they did in 1912 and 1914, they invariably insist the loss of their votes is due to the "inefficiency" of the Democratic State Committee. Such deception will not work with intelligent men.

There is but one real issue in the factional fight started by the professed followers of Michael Liebel. They have no special interest in the success of Michael Liebel, further than to use him as a tool to defeat Palmer and Morris, the National Committeeman and Democratic State Chairman, and thus capture the party organization. They wish to control and dictate, that is all. All sincere Democrats should be on the firing line on Tuesday, May 16.

Every sincere Democrat in Pennsylvania, who believes in decent politics and good government, owes it to his party to attend the primaries on Tuesday, May 16, and support President Wilson and the Democratic state organization.

SAMUEL B. PHILSON
of Meyersdale, Pa.
Candidate for State Treasurer

has been actively engaged in banking in Somerset county for thirty-four years.

He is president of the Citizens National bank of Meyersdale, Pa., which from a small beginning has grown under his management and supervision to be the largest national bank in Somerset county.

He is also president of the Philson National bank of Berlin, Pa., a thriving bank of that town.

Mr. Philson is a prominent citizen in the southwestern part of the state. Of wide experience in the financial and business interests of that section he is peculiarly well qualified to serve as State Treasurer. His integrity could not be challenged, nor his Democracy questioned.

True to Wilson.

"When Palmer kept the Pennsylvania delegation intact for Wilson, at the Baltimore convention, although the Old Guard tried to swing to Clark, the Stroudsburg man's clarion call to duty—'We will remain for Wilson until the Chesapeake freezes over'—won for him, not only the applause, but the support of every Wilson Democrat in the State. Those Democrats who really are for Wilson, cannot help but be for Palmer."—Pennsburg Town and Country, April 29.

They Are Decent.

"The controlling forces of the Pennsylvania state Democracy are decent. A. Mitchell Palmer is honest. He is able. He is courageous. He stands for things that are right. In short, he is a Democrat and has never traveled with the corrupt powers that dominate and control in Pennsylvania."—From Delaware County Democrat.

If the Hall-Guffey crowd had supported Wilson in 1912, he would have carried this state. These disgruntled disorganizers wanted Wilson beaten in Pennsylvania in order to discredit the Democratic state organization.

SATURDAY, MAY 13, 1916.

If you approve of President Wilson's course of having kept America out of the greatest war of all times, if you approve of his program of preparedness for defense, if you want the country in the hands of a man who can safely and surely hold the reins for the next four years, the square thing to do is to go to the polls on next Tuesday and put an X opposite the name of Woodrow Wilson.

On the second page will be found a reproduction of the Democratic primary ballot with the names of the organization Democrats marked. If you are for Wilson and Wilson's devoted friend, A. Mitchell Palmer, the man who has redeemed Pennsylvania Democracy from its bi-partisan taint, vote the Democratic primary ballot exactly as marked on second page.

The primary is the place to settle a ticket, to name a winning ticket, and the guess of one Democrat is as good as another. The safety of Democracy is in numbers and for that reason every Democrat and citizen owes to himself and party and country to give expression to his convictions.

When you go to the primary name as your choice a winning ticket. In choosing those to be voted for, there are many considerations that will appeal to you, but the one overwhelming consideration is to name good candidates who can win. What the party needs, what Wilson needs, is the support of a ticket that will win.

Blood Medicine

That originated in a famous doctor's successful prescription, that is made from the purest and best ingredients, that has a record of relief and benefit believed to be unequalled the world over—such is HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

THOMAS J. BRERETON, of Chambersburg.

Mr. Brereton is a man who does the will of the Democratic people of the district. The Democratic party has such a champion in Thos. J. Brereton, president of the Valley Spirit Publishing Company in Chambersburg, issuing the not only a Democratic daily paper in the Democratic district.

If Penrose's secret of the next State Senate election is to block all legislation, the people want Senator Martin. It is now Adams county's opportunity to return the condition for the Democrats of the 33rd Senatorial District to have as its primary for Thos. J. Brereton.

Ex-Congressman John T. Lenahan, Luzerne.
E. J. Lynett, Scranton.
Charles D. McAvoy, Montgomery.
William McIntyre, Mercer.
Roland S. Morris, state chairman, Philadelphia.

The twelve candidates for alternate delegates-at-large supported by the Democratic state organization face no opposition whatever and are as follows:

A. V. Dively, Blair; M. J. Clemons, Sullivan; John F. Stojce, Potter; C. H. Akens, Lawrence; Jacob L. Butt, Adams; Victor E. P. Barkman, Bedford; Norris B. Slack, Chester; Edward A. DePurton, Philadelphia; J. Harvey Burge, Greene; General C. Bow Dougherty, Luzerne; S. L. Gilson, Erie; R. M. Matson, Jefferson.

Of the Second Ward of York City
DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR Representative In Congress

The Primary is the place at which every Democrat should express himself for the welfare of the Democratic principles he represents and the good of his party.

The way to advance those principles is to elect candidates at the primary who can win at the polls thereby insuring the good of the party.

For years the Congressional contest has been either a losing one or one hard to win.

All over the District Democrats are saying that the 20th District composed of York and Adams Counties is a Democratic district on any party issue and should be made a Democratic district this year by a winning ticket with a new name on it.

Enough. When there have been mistakes and misunderstandings that did not conserve and strengthen the party but had the opposite effect, what reason could there be for a repetition.

Adams County Democrats have been asking York County to give them a winner at the polls. Such a winner is presented in S. FORRY LAUCKS, a prominent business man of York who has made good in building up for his city one of its greatest industrial enterprises, the York Safe and Lock Company. His ability has commanded recognition along other lines. He has always been a friend and supporter of President Wilson, voting for him upon every ballot at the Baltimore Convention nominating Wilson.

Isn't S. Forry Laucks the man of the hour to redeem the 20th District and put it safely in the Democratic column for President Wilson.

If you think so, why not so vote?

HIS MONUMENT.

should not have married on so little money. Our people told us so. But we did"—she tossed her head defiantly—"and we were happy, so happy, until the accident. It was an automobile, and it injured his hip. At the hospital they could do little, and oh, the suffering!" The girl covered her face, but soon her voice rang clear again. "Even then I could have managed had he trusted me. He was brought home from the hospital to spend his life in a wheeled chair. But I found a position, and it was good. After hours there was extra typing. Joy alone seemed to suffer, needing more care than I could give. So I decided to put love before pride—to send her here with those good people for the summer. Then, sitting there all day alone, her father reasoned wrongly. 'A double burden is more than even willing hands can bear,' he wrote. I found the cruel self sacrificing note when I came home at night, and he was gone. He would have good cause, he assured me. But the place where he was going should be kept secret that I might not come to break his determination. Always I would have news of him, and he would hear of me. But until some easier way might be opened my husband would efface himself for my sake. Letters came, many and often, all dated from New York. How he had managed to get there I could not know."

In silent sympathy old Charlie reached over and touched the little mother's hand.

"And does it," asked the child at evening, "take so many dollars to buy a tombstone?" Charlie was counting the money back into the box, his fingers moving shakily. He nodded. "Reckon you'll have to take keef o' your cat for a day or two, Joy," he said. "I've got to go into town."

"Oh," she cried, her eyes wide and shining, "are you going to find my papa now?" you said "some day, mebbe." Charlie's horny palm closed in promise over the little soft one. "If I kin," he answered simply.

From hospital to hospital went the bent old figure and then Charlie turned into the broad gateway of the place of his last hope. New York, he felt sure, was not the true hiding place of the crippled father. Letters might be forwarded from there in order to keep from the loved one the humiliating fact of the home city "poor farm." And Charlie found that he was right. His sharp old eyes soon sought out the wheel chair even in its secluded corner. A young man, lifting his head in quick alarm at a stranger's approach, dropped it again at sight of the seaman's bent figure.

"How do?" said Charlie pleasantly. "Pretty tiresome, I reckon, a-settin' round all day. Been like this long?" The young man nodded brusquely. "And they ain't no cure?"

"None." The word was shortly spoken. Sympathy, deep and true, shone in every line of Charlie's wrinkled face. The sick man, regarding him quietly, smiled in sudden friendliness. "Unless," he added, "I were rich then there might be a chance."

"Sho!" Charlie was interested. "How's that?"

"There's a clever old customer, an Austrian surgeon, who sometimes fixes up a job like me. He's in New York now, but it would take more money than I'll have in all my crippled life just to bring him to look me over."

"Land!" murmured Charlie softly. "That's too bad."

The young man laughed. "Oh, well," he said, "don't you worry about it."

"Too bad," Charlie repeated as he shuffled down the long corridor to the doctor's door.

"Come in," called a brisk voice, and old Charlie entered the attending physician's office.

Joy was waiting for him when he returned at evening—waiting upon his doorstep in the early twilight, the white kitten in her arms.

"You didn't find my daddy," she sighed resignedly. "But maybe another day you'll bring him back to me."

"Mebbe," said old Charlie.

When the little mother came again upon visiting day she hurried eagerly across the sands with Joy.

"Listen, kind friend," she called, and waved aloft a letter. "It is from my husband." She paused breathlessly. "Such wonderful news. I must share it with you. He feared to write too hopefully, yet could not keep his hope from me. Some great Austrian surgeon has consented to take his case—to operate there in New York. The doctors have arranged everything. If the operation is successful my husband will walk again." The girl's voice sang. Charlie turned reverently from the radiance of her eyes.

"An' then you'll be happy?" he asked. There was a subdued eagerness in the question.

"Happy!" She breathed the word tremulously.

"Reckon," said Charlie slowly, "that's real livin'—makin' folks happy."

It was Joy who finally told him the great news. How daddy had been sent to New York, where a great surgeon, like the wizard in a fairy tale, made broken limbs straight and strong. "And soon," said Joy, nestling close in the old man's arms, "my daddy will walk home again. But I'll come to see you after because I love you so, and—and I'll be sorry when you have your monument."

"As for that monument," said Charlie, "I've changed my mind. Reckoned it'd be better to rejoice in a livin' monument here than to have a piece o' marble when I'm dead."

"I'll bring you flowers," murmured the child sleepily. Old Charlie gazed tenderly down upon the little head against his breast. Over his rugged features came a look of great content.

"Reckon, dearie," he said, "you're a-bringin' me flowers right now."

Europe's Battle Front Lessons

V.—America Needs Aeroplanes and Submarines In Abundance

Unless Our Army Is Provided With "Eyes In the Air" and Men to Man Them We Will Be Helpless Against Invaders.

Up to Date Submersible, Too, Is Important Arm of Defense—Seaplanes and Anti-Air Craft Guns Absolutely Necessary.

By FREDERICK PALMER, who has been only official representative of the entire American press with the allies. Copyright, 1915, by the Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

WE have dealt with the navy and with the guns which represent the machinery of war and skill in handling it as a means of defense in place of the flesh and blood of mothers' sons.

Two other kinds of machinery have been tried out in this war for the first time.

Both were the product of American inventive genius. Holland, an American, gave the world the first practical submarine. Wright, an American, who began life repairing bicycles, was the first man to fly. We were the originators, but there we stopped.

Europe took the results of our pioneering and went on with their development. England and Germany carried the submarine to its present efficiency and France and Germany the flying machine, while we stood on the side lines looking on, leaving others to lead with our own inventions.

In nothing is it so easy to be sensational as about the war in the air and under the sea. Here the fiction writer is limited only by his imagination, and the lunatic may consider himself a military expert. In novels and articles about war in the air cities have fallen like paper under the blow-pipe and continents have rocked. Let us have the facts, the actual lessons of the war.

The Zeppelin a Failure to Date.

The Zeppelin is a practical failure to date—a goblin to frighten little boys, but not fighting men. So far as I can learn, no more than twenty British soldiers have been killed and wounded by all the Zeppelin raids over England. These were hit in the course of the bombardment of civilian populations. They were not in action. Their total is about one to fifty of the Zeppelin crews which have been killed as the result of the Zeppelin adventures of this war. They are not for the use of the American army and navy.

London could be easily defended from them if it were worth while. It is only a matter of building guns of sufficient caliber to carry to a sufficient altitude. The British needed all the big guns they could make at the front, and therefore they used pogons to fire at the aerial invaders, whose every visit increased recruiting. After a fall of bombs women who had been holding back their men folk sent them to the front. Bombardment of civil populations is a military mistake. It makes your enemy fight the harder.

Our Army Pitifully Weak In Air.

The development of the aeroplane has been amazing in all respects. We hear little about this, because no secrets are more thoroughly guarded than those of the aviation services. Each nation has been using all of its wits in improving its planes, and the only way the other fellow learns his adversaries' latest improvements is when an enemy machine falls in his lines. Our own planes, both army and navy, pitifully insufficient in numbers and progress at the start of the war, are now ridiculous. We have fifteen third rate planes, not enough to look after a ten mile front. They don't count. They are slow, out of date and would be driven out of the air by the superior air craft of an enemy.

The planes have taken the place of the cavalry as scouts. They are the "eyes" of the army, and they spot the fall of the shells for the gunners. In battle each plane flying over the field represents a certain group of guns, to which it reports by wireless. If you have no planes or anti-air craft guns, the enemy will know the location of all your guns and concentrate on them and put them out of action. But that would hardly matter, as your guns would be of no use anyway if you had no planes to tell them whether or not they hit the target. We lack both guns and planes, so we are consistent. In Europe they are using three types of planes—one for reconnaissance and fire control, one for combat and one for pursuit. The only kind we have are for reconnaissance and fire control. We have none to drive off an enemy's planes or to resist an enemy's planes. Flesh and blood for us. We are too chivalrous to our enemy to use machinery against him. We will allow him to massacre us with our machinery.

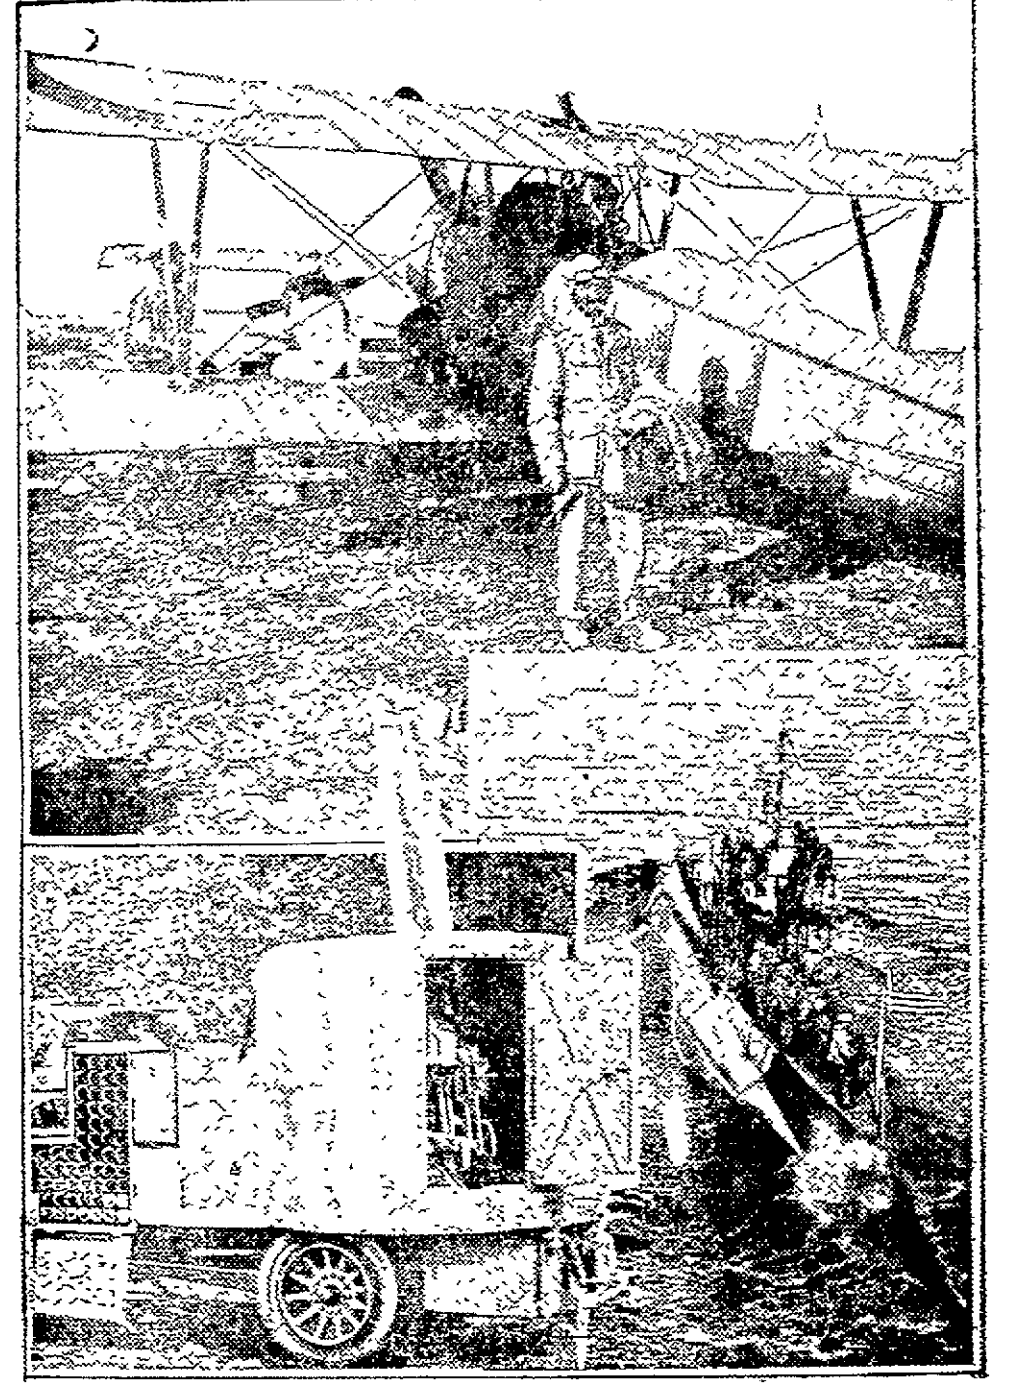

America Without Anti-Air Craft Guns.

Since we have no anti-air craft guns, an enemy aviator could keep low enough in order to get every single detail of the positions. The anti-air craft guns which move up behind the lines of all the armies on fast motor-cars, frequently bring down a plane, but that is only a small part of their business, which is to hold the enemy's planes at a great height. If a plane tried to come within two or three thousand yards of any anti-air craft gun it wouldn't have any more chance than a duck twenty feet away under two barrels of a shotgun. Six thousand feet is hardly safe. Eight thousand is more often the rule. At that height the landscape is pretty vague, and it is difficult for the aviator to do his work. But it would not be over our army. He could descend to within rifle range, and all our secrets would be an open book. Even with plenty of planes they often fail. As we have no planes of account, what chance would we have of detecting the enemy's movements? Their anti-air craft guns would not bother us, as we would give them no targets.

The Navy's Need of Seaplanes.

While the army plane is like the gull, the seaplane, or hydroplane, is like a duck. It must be heavier, with floats enabling it to light on the water. Seaplane development has been quite as rapid as that of the army plane. There seems no limit to the possibilities of its size and its carrying power. It can see the wake of the submarine, which is invisible to the cruising destroyers, bringing word of the submarine's location to the destroyers or other pursuers. Going far to sea to locate an enemy, it travels at twice the speed of the fastest destroyers and sends its news home by wireless to the commander in chief. You must have seaplanes to check the enemy's seaplanes, if for no other reason.

There is no reason why we should build thousands of planes, trying to imitate the European armies in numbers, but our planes must be of the most advanced types, with the best possible engines. It has been found in Europe that the machinery is more difficult to acquire than the skilled aviator. The man is already built, but it takes time to build an engine and a plane.

The British train aviators in three months, and it is the general opinion that they, though their corps was only two years old when the war began, excel as aviators. Their success is partly due to the fact that they are sports men, used to hunting and shooting and out of deer life.

In this, as in many other things, it is not a case of having an enormous force always in being, but of being prepared to utilize national resources promptly. There are 50,000 excellent potential aviators in the United States, and you could have a choice of them on call. It would be a case of selection of the fit for instruction by the trained force of regular officers.

The Case of the Submarine.

So much for the air. And now under the sea.

The submarine, like the aeroplane, has done more than was expected of it. It is the guerrilla of the seas. But in its present development it cannot protect the passage of a single one of the merchant steamers that flies its own flag or of a single cruiser or battleship if outgunned by the enemy's. It cannot even drive the other fellow's merchant ships off the seas as long as he has a superior navy.

The British have double the number of submarines of the Germans. They have navigated them to the Baltic and to the sea of Marmora. In the Baltic they have made it uncomfortable for German shipping, and on the Marmora they have got some Turkish transports

But, in general, they have lacked targets. There have been no German ships out anywhere except in the Baltic. An enemy's submarine would not bother our merchant marine much because we practically have none. Submarines are not of the slightest use against a fleet inside a harbor. Both the British and German fleets are safe in their anchorages from the submarine's attack, thanks to their precautions. A submarine poking its nose round the nets at the harbor's mouth will be unlucky if it finds an opening in the first net. Then it will be caught between the first and the second and will have to come up and surrender or stay down and drown.

Submarine Great For Defense.

In defense the submarine's little brother is the mine. The mine waits with its explosive till a ship comes. But the submarine takes its mine with it. The two can protect almost any harbor if you have enough of them.

The longer the coast line we have to defend the more important both seaplanes and submarines to our navy. Our army planes, if we have any, will watch the enemy's army if one should ever land on our shores. But that army cannot land until our navy has been bottled up, until it is able to guard its transports against our submarines and bombardments by bombs from our seaplanes.

The British have kept the channel free for their transports by making a barrier from France to England in the shallow water of the channel which no submarine could pass. But such a barrier is difficult in an open roadstead. Whenever there is one submarine at large all transports and merchant shipping are imperiled unless Submarine Bases Needed.

As an enemy on the Atlantic is bound to strike for the Panama canal and our control of the Caribbean, we must have thoroughly prepared submarine and seaplane bases at Guantanamo, Panama and Colon and also at Hawaii and in the Philippines if we are to defend our Pacific possessions.

As submarine crews cannot be trained in a day to the mechanical work of the complicated box of machinery under water, we must have adequate personnel. No seaman's work is so trying as that of the submarine's crew. It represents an indescribable hardship in confinement. Submarine crews cannot be hastily prepared as aviators may. They must be ready when war comes. So must our seaplanes and plants for building and repairing if we are to have an adequate, well rounded navy.

Whether the future of war is in the air and under water is something which only time will decide. In the meantime the United States must keep up to date. It must not be taken by surprise by an enemy who has the latest type of weapons while our own are archaic.

Women Hope Elephantine "Hint" Will Sway G. O. P.

This is "Jennie," one of the elephants which will lead parade of woman suffragists in Chicago as part of the demonstration to have the Republican Party insert a suffrage plank in its platform. Topping the pachyderm's dome is Miss Julia Powers and at the side is Miss Portia Willis, both suffragists, who are rehearsing "Jennie" for her duties.

SUFFRAGISTS ARE CHEERED BY STAND OF EX-PRESIDENT

Women's State Leader Believes
Other "Big Men" Must Follow
Roosevelt's Lead and Eliminate Sex-Bar From Ballot.

"TRUER NATIONALISM," AIM

President of the United States two terms and candidate for that high office again, Theodore Roosevelt has cheered women by his fearless stand in favor of national woman suffrage, by declaring that "the question of enfranchising women has become national" and pledging his support of the proposed amendment to the Federal Constitution.

"Former President Roosevelt," said Mrs. George B. Orlady, head of the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage Association, "ever has been admired for his quick perception of the desires of the people of the country. It must be admitted he is an astute political psychologist and sees large and far. We, the women of Pennsylvania have been waiting expectantly for the 'big man,' the 'big men,' who will grasp the significance and strength of the woman suffrage movement in a national way. We knew and know that it was and is inevitable that men of Presidential timber must realize that our nationalism is not to-day, with only one-half the people having a voice in the government, what the framers of the Constitution held our Republic should be—a government of equality wherein each person governed has a right to a voice in the government."

"We, the suffragists, are trustful in our conviction that the great political party of the future is that party which will frankly recognize and adopt the fundamentals of that true nationalism which bars no person from the ballot because of sex."

"The time will come, we predict, confidently, when all leaders of parties and men—wondering why they ever hesitated—will uphold the standard of equality. And be our opinions what they may relative to other causes endorsed by former President Roosevelt, no honest, frank and just man, no true woman could other than laud him for his broad, true and truly patriotic stand for a 'truer nationalism.'

"We hope the day is here when all leaders will be true to themselves and to the parties they endorse and represent."

"I ask every voter, and every woman to read Colonel Roosevelt's pronouncement."

Former President Roosevelt's statement concerning national woman suffrage follows:

"I believe that the time has come for a greater and truer nationalism in this country. I believe in the nationalization of the issues which affect not only men, but women also."

"The great problems of our country are national. In the matter of the railroads, for example, 46 different sets of laws for their regulation merely check and handicap their development and management. A universal Federal law is essential for railroads. In the same way, the question of the enfranchisement of women has become national and demands Federal action."

"I, therefore, heartily endorse any Federal amendment which shall substantially provide:

"(1) That the right of the citizen of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States on account of sex."

"(2) Congress shall have power, and it shall be the duty of Congress by appropriate legislation, to enforce the provisions of this article."

NEW STATE SUFFRAGE BOARD MEMBER NAMED

Mrs. George A. Dunning, an active suffrage worker of Philadelphia, has been appointed to the Executive Board of the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage Association to succeed Mrs. Joseph Head.

Mrs. Dunning as Mrs. Head's successor, also will be the Pennsylvania member of the Executive Council of the National American Woman Suffrage Association.

Dr. John A. Brashear, named at the Panama Exposition, San Francisco, as the foremost citizen of Pennsylvania, says: "It should not be a question of men suffering women to vote but rather, he declares, they should make it possible, and then 'coax them to do so.'"

HIS MONUMENT

It Was One to the Living,
Not the Dead

By AGNES G. BROGAN

Old Charlie's life began with the coming of the children's mission to the shore. Eighty birthdays or more had he known on this same sandy beach.

Then one day when the tempting odor of his favorite ginger cookies filled the air Charlie's real life began. It was a group of romping Fresh Air mission children who attracted his attention. They were drawn to his place, no doubt, by that same delicious odor. Charlie's glance was forbidding. "Now, look a-here," he commanded. "You scampers. Don't come a-trackin' up my steps!" But one little maiden lingered unafraid. Beneath a shock of fair curls her witching eyes looked up at him.

"If you please," she said. "I would like three cookies." Charlie chuckled. "Three?" he exclaimed. "I want them," the little girl told him. "for the Borinsky children. They have never had any cookies." Behind their spokesman the Borinsky children waited hopefully.

"Land!" said Charlie. (It was his one exclamation, but he brought forth a plate heaped generously.) "No, thank you," the unusual young person remarked. "I did not ask for the cookies for myself." Grinning widely, old Charlie watched her down the sands.

"There's a berry one," he murmured delightedly. "Spunky, too." The next morning she was back again, this time bearing in her arms a white bedraggled kitten. Uninvited, she confidently walked inside, appropriating Charlie's own big chair. "You'll keep the kitten, please," she said. "It cried last night all around the mission, and they would not let it in."

"Land!" ejaculated the old man. "Do you think I want to take keer of a cat?"

"You will," answered Miss Goldilocks. She smiled winsomely. "I like you," she said. Charlie took up the kitten, something unaccountable stirring in his breast. "You can come here and see it," he told her, "as often as the mission folks'll let you." He paused perplexedly. "You ain't like the rest of 'em," said Charlie. "How'd you come to get here?"

"Mother thought it best," the child replied in her pretty, precise way. "It is hot and crowded in the city, where we live, and we had no money to pay for country. You see—she raised grievous eyes to his—"our daddy went and left us."

"Left a little thing like you?" said Charlie. But he added in quick encouragement. "He'll be comin' back again." The child shook her head. "He can't, mother says, because he's broken his leg. People with broken legs cannot walk." "Sho!" said Charlie slowly. "That's so—if mother told you."

"And," continued the child, "mother has to work very hard to keep us both, so she cannot go away to find father. But if I stay here long enough perhaps she can save money to go. Then we will all be happy again. We were so happy! That's why they call me Joy."

"Joy!" whispered old Charlie. For a moment his roughened hand rested upon the curly head. "It's a good name," he said. Suddenly Joy leaned forward. "Couldn't you go to find father?" she asked.

Charlie smiled. "Mebbe," he said. "mebbe, some day."

When he had finished reading his paper that evening Charlie drew forth in the lamplight an old tin box. Pains-takingly he made a record of the savings within and added his evening's toll. Then, with furrowed brow, he bent to study a map and a drawing which had for him never failing interest and charm. The map was the plan of a nearby cemetery, the drawing that of a tall marble tombstone. If in this uncertain life old Charlie had lived and labored unrecognized it was his one dream and determination to leave a mark after death. Here his name should be pointed out to future generations, the resting place of Charles Jaffray—Charles James Jaffray. And so, gloating one morning over his little store, Joy, coming to visit her kitten, found him.

"What's it for?" she asked in her straight, childish way. And, delighting at last in a confidant, old Charlie told her.

"That," said Joy softly. "will be beautiful, and I shall come to place flowers about your monument."

When upon a never forgotten day Joy brought her mother to visit him Charlie thought at first that two children were coming together across the sands, so young and sweet and fair was the mother of Joy. Looking up with the same frank smile, she thanked him for his care of her daughter.

"Land," said the pleased old man. "that wasn't nothing." Reckon—he smiled—"reckon Joy's my first love. She was telling me about her father," he went on, lowering his voice—"how he went away and didn't come back. I'm real sorry. Seems you put her off, lettin' on he'd broke his leg."

"But it's true!" cried the mother of Joy, her cheeks flaming and her eyes aglow. "He is the finest man in the world, Joy's father, the best. We

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Biliousness and Constipation.

For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been to-day had I not tried Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, purify the stomach, liver and blood, helping the system to do its work naturally.—Mrs. Rosa Potts, Birmingham, Ala. These tablets are for sale by the People's Drug Store.

WANTED--WOMAN SUFFRAGE PLANKS

Migrating with others, two special trains bearing suffragists from Pennsylvania will converge with those from other States of the Union in Chicago, June 7. There, with 49,000 other women, they will take part in the demonstration planned by the suffragists to sway the Republican National convention to adopt a woman suffrage plank in the party platform.

In St. Louis, June 14, the suffragists will have a "Walkless Parade" for the benefit of the Democratic National convention delegates, hoping they, too, will use a woman suffrage plank when they construct the platform to be the basis of their presidential campaign.

Both demonstrations will have a yellow glow, the color of suffrage. In Chicago a feature will be the G. O. P. symbols—elephants carrying suffrage planks—as "hints" to the Republican party. In St. Louis donkeys, the emblem of the Democratic party, will be used.

Miss Ethel Austin Shrigley is in charge of arrangements for the Pennsylvania suffragists. She will be assisted in the east by Mrs. George A. Dunning, 1723 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, and in the west by Mrs. H. Talbot Peterson of 5551 Columbo street, Pittsburgh.

All the State officers of the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage Association will accompany the delegates.
